FACTSHEET - June 2026

LIBERO INTERNATIONAL (SICAV) PLC
NEXUS PORTFOLIO FUNDS

Strategy Objective

The Nexus Cautious Portfolio is an actively managed, globally diversified multi-asset fund. The aim is capital protection and modest capital appreciation. The Portfolio is intended to provide a lower-risk investment opportunity that delivers attractive returns while preserving capital through a diversified approach to investing.

Investment Process

The Nexus Global Cautious Portfolio is a diversified and liquid portfolio of developed market government, supranational and investment grade corporate bonds combined with a limited allocation to global equities. It is not constrained by one particular investment style such as growth or value, nor is it constrained by a benchmark. The portfolio will seek to provide an attractive level of income without taking undue levels of credit risk. The equity allocation in the portfolio will offer a combination of attractive dividends and capital growth by investing in a selection of large cap, developed market equities. The Nexus Global Cautious Portfolio is for the investor who seeks attractive income and the potential for modest capital appreciation with lower volatility than the Nexus Dynamic or Nexus Solutions Portfolios.

Market Commentary

The month in which the U.S. and Iran signed an MoU outlining a path to peace also saw the weakest equity returns since the war began, as chipmakers paused after strong gains in April and May. Nevertheless, U.S. and Japanese equities led quarterly performance, supported by continued AI-driven strength.

Bond markets were calmer in June, with yields drifting lower after March's energy-driven rise. The ECB raised rates by 25bps but struck a measured tone, while the BoE and Fed left policy unchanged and reiterated their commitment to controlling inflation. New Fed Chair Kevin Warsh proved less dovish than expected but maintained a steady policy stance.

Falling oil prices helped lower yields as markets anticipated reduced disruption in the Strait of Hormuz. However, shipping volumes remain below pre-war levels, suggesting risks persist. Gold, silver and bitcoin weakened alongside a stronger US dollar as markets shifted from expecting rate cuts to considering further tightening.

Looking ahead, AI investment remains a key driver of economic growth and equity markets, supported by strong demand for computing power and rapid growth at firms such as Anthropic and OpenAI. Improving business investment and credit growth are also supporting earnings and labour market resilience.

The main challenge for markets is how central banks respond to stronger growth while inflation remains above target. Although near-term rate hikes appear unlikely, we expect upward pressure on longer-term yields from rising debt issuance, fiscal deficits, defence spending and investment requirements across key sectors. Consequently, bond returns may remain constrained and provide less diversification than in the past.

We continue to favour defence and energy exposure. While a broader Middle East conflict has been avoided, U.S.-Iran relations remain fragile and energy supply disruption remains a risk. With geopolitical tensions unresolved and U.S. midterm elections approaching, we expect market volatility to remain elevated in the months ahead.

Important: the value of investments and the income from them can go down as well as up. You may not recover what you invest.
